Bayside Fire Department stops blaze at Harbor Drive

SEA COAST ECHO

The Bayside Fire Department responded to a blaze at Harbor Drive in the early morning hours on Sunday.

"At approximately 12:24 a.m., we were dispatched to Harbor Drive for a structure fire," Bayside Chief Tony Johnston said. "Upon arrival, we discovered we had two vehicles under a carport fully involved and the fire was spreading to the home."

A third party called in the blaze, Johnston said, and officers from the Hancock County Sheriff's Office went into the home and rescued homeowner Hayward Spiers.

The firefighters immediately went into action to extinguish the blaze, Johnston said.

"Quick response and

Food Fight 2018 - Sound Insurance Solutions

SEA COAST ECHO

Each year since 2016, Sound Insurance Solutions hosts an annual "Food Fight," with several local businesses and volunteers pitching in to collect and donate food to area food pantries.

"We have had a great year for the Food Fight," Christy Bond of Sound Insurance Solutions said in a press release Thursday. "Today, we delivered the prize trophy to the 2018 Food Fight Champion - Silver Slipper Casino. Silver Slipper and their Team Captain Sandra topped the leaderboard with 1,378 items collected."

Second Place went to Starfish Café with 769 food items, and Third Place went to Advantage Title with 657, Bond said.

"We had a great show of support this year from all of our communities and could not thank each and every one of them enough for helping families. Mr. (Jim) Collins at the Hancock County Food Pantry was very helpful in making sure everything was ready inside the pantry for our drop off for the Christmas pickups."

The Food Fight lasted from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, Bond said, collecting a total of 3,505 pounds of food for area pantries.

"Since we have made our initial drop off, we have several citizens of the communities that are still continuing to collect and contact us about picking up the goods they are getting to deliver to the pantry," bond said.

"Shelves in the pantry were bare and one pantry in particular said our donations could not have come at a better time. As we walked into their main office, we were greeted by gracious families that were moved by the food we were able to donate. Struggle during this time of year can be more than we think we can bear, but when we are together as one, helping as one, and one community, we can be a strong as ever."

"Hunger can impact the lives of anyone, and at Sound Insurance we stay in touch with the pantries throughout the year to help stock the shelves when they are in need."

The complete list of this year's Food Fight winners - and the number of food items each one collected -- is below

- Silver Slipper Hotel & Casino, 1,378
- Starfish Café, 769
- Advantage Title, 657
- Brandon Patrolia*, 478
- St. Martin Middle School, 147
- Mike Meyers State Farm, 58
- Avocado's Restaurant, 56
- 1st Franklin, Bay St. Louis, 50
- Camping World, 49
- Keesler Federal Credit Union, 48
- Buttercup Café, 47

- Dr. Conaway, Bay St. Louis, 41
- Quickly Asian Fusion Café, 12

"Braden Patrolia is one of the young community members that wanted to make a difference for others this year, and knew joining our Fight was the perfect way," Bond said. "With the help of his Mother, Christie Patrolia, Braden was able to get friends, families, and businesses to join Team Braden 2018, and collect donations. Some of the business' Braden had join his team were Kirk's Wheel and Tire Pros, Coastal Hardware, Trena's Beau Chezeaux, Dockside, the Donut Shop, Jacob's Well Baptist Church, The Smoke

Shop, Dolly's, Lakeview Nursing Home on Robinson Rd., and his top donor Family Dollar. Just to watch young kids be a part of helping others is great.

"We invited Braden to help us with all of the local pickups, deliveries, and of course, it was made even more official with his own Food Fight Shirt.

"We cannot wait to see what the Food Fight has in store for us in the years to come, but we do know, it was all made possible by each and every person that helped contribute by their donations, advertising, and caring. We hope to continue to help serve the community and keep making great friends along the way."

Impson makes track comeback

BY GWEN IMPSON

Saturday, October 27 marked the first time in a year that John Impson, age 79, was back on the running track. Those who have followed his running career over the past ten years may recall that Impson usually competes in both the Senior Olympics and USA Masters Track and Field events at both the regional and national level.

LSU sponsored the Louisiana Senior Games last Saturday with athletes from several states participating. The meet was important because it was a qualifying meet for the National Senior Games next year. Impson placed in the top two places in each of his three sprints, earning three silver medals.

Last fall he began having back problems, then last spring he underwent major heart surgery and more recently a back procedure to reduce pain.

Through months of physical therapy his goal was to run again. Not long distance; he is only interested in short distances: the 50 meter, 100 meter and 200 meter sprints. These are based more on speed than long distances which require greater endurance.

After two heart surgeries, Impson underwent cardiac rehabilitation at Gulfport Memorial and, with his doctor's approval, began walking, then jogging before trying sprinting again most often at the St. Stanislaus Track. He received encouragement from Michael Boudreaux, a friend who runs in the same age bracket and who also had open heart surgery some years ago. Another influence was Impson's running and training partner, Dr. Inez Kelleher, who offered advice on slowly getting back on the track.

While his doctors may be surprised by his progress, his friends and family aren't. Impson is known for his determination and love of sprinting. His next goal is to go to Dallas to Baylor Hospital where he has been accepted to participate in a special Cardiac Rehabilitation for Senior Athletes. He hopes not only to regain but improve his running times. He's making big plans for next year. There are several indoor USA Track and Field events in the spring and the National Senior Games next summer in Albuquerque.

May 2019 bring the best for YOU

I don't know about you, but it seems to me that 2018 just whizzed by very fast. They say the older you get, the faster times goes by. That's probably true when you stay busy. I hope that 2019 will be very prosperous for each and every one of you.

Last year was a bit too rainy for my taste, but otherwise a good year for us along the Mississippi Gulf Coast – at least, in regards to hurricanes – and I hope that the year of 2019 will be the same.

There seem to be few employment opportunities in Hancock County these days.

I feel one of the major reasons for that is because so many jobs have left the United States and gone to other countries. Those folks need jobs, too, but it leaves too many of our own citizens on the unemployment line.

Nationally, our leaders have focused quite a bit on education – especially early education, and that's great, even though not everyone is cut out to be a rocket scientist.

Technology is changing at a most rapid pace, so I hope every one of you will do your best to get the best education you possibly can, no mater what your profession will be.

I still think that most of our school systems are not putting enough emphasis on vocational training – there are many vocational trades that pay high salaries.

One of the things I think some unemployed people do not understand, is that in some cases, it is easier to get a better job in the field you want if you're employed somewhere with a good track record, even if that job isn't in your field.

In today's business world, many employers will do interviews followed by a reference check on potential employment hires..

Before I started working at this newspaper, I was the first hardware clerk at Waveland Lumber and Hubbard's Hardware for four years, three of those years while in high school, and another year before serving in the military for three years.

My former employer Mr. Hubbard told me that if I continued working for him, all I would ever be was a hardware clerk, because his sons were getting involved in the business, but he said he would help me get a higher-paying job elsewhere.

I had received word that there may be some help needed at the Echo, so I visited the newspaper on a Friday afternoon and spoke to the publisher. I told him what my working background was, including my military duties.

Before I left, the Echo publisher told me if a job opening came up, he would contact me.

It was really amazing, but you know something, in less than 30 minutes, the Echo's publisher was calling me on the telephone to tell me to report the next Monday morning at 8.

Of course, prior to calling me, he had contacted my former employer, who had later told me of the call.

No matter what type of a job you have, it is very important to do the best you can do.

The most sought after animal

The drake mallard is the most sought after species of waterfowl in Mississippi. No other species so quickly comes to mind when waterfowlers take to flooded fields, cypress brakes, and beaver sloughs during Mississippi's waterfowl season.

The mallard has the most extensive breeding range of any duck. During February and March, mallards are leaving their wintering grounds and begin the migration to the nesting grounds. Mallards reach their nesting grounds around April and May.

As large flocks arrive at the larger water areas of the breeding grounds, they begin to break up as pairs and disperse to pot-holes and other small water areas in search of a nest site.

The hen forms a nest bowl in plant litter or earth. The area is 7 to 8 inches in diameter and 1 to 2 inches deep. The hen lays one egg a day until the clutch is complete. Mallards lay an average of nine eggs per clutch. Incubation lasts 26 to 30 days.

Nest failure can be a significant problem and predation is the largest contributor to this failure. Skunks, raccoons, red fox, crows, and magpies are all destroyers of mallard nests.

Adult drake mallards, or "greenheads," have a glossy green head, a yellow bill, and a white neck-ring which separates the green head from the chestnut-brown breast. The sides are gray. The tail consists of a white section sandwiched between two black sections. The wing spectrum is an iridescent violet-blue which is bordered by a pronounced white stripe at the front and back. The legs and feet are a bright coral-red color.

The hen mallard, or "Susie," is mottled brown in color, usually being darker on the upper body and lighter on the lower body. The bill is usually orange in color and the legs and feet are a dull orange.

The mallard is the most vocal of all commonly hunted waterfowl species. Though drakes are rather quiet, the hen has a variety of quacks that set the standard of comparison with other species and for hunters attempting to call ducks.

Mallards are dabbling ducks or what are commonly referred to as puddle ducks. They frequent shallow waters rather than deep lakes or bays. Lowland areas covered with a foot or two of water provide prime habitat for mallards. Sloughs, shallow impoundments such as beaver ponds and agricultural fields are among the many sites frequented by mallards in the Magnolia State.

Like other dabbling ducks, mallards feed by tipping up rather than diving beneath the water. Mallards feed on a variety of natural foods such as wild millet, smartweed, a variety of grasses, and other plants. Mallards also feed on waste grains such as rice, corn, soybeans, and sorghum.

Simple and Sustainable Ways to Become a Healthier You in 2019

by Jennifer Bucko Lamplough and Lara Rondinelli Hamilton

Around the new year, most of us vow to make drastic changes to our diet or lifestyle. For some that means adopting a strict (and joyless) diet or signing up for hardcore fitness classes that meet at 5:00 a.m. (despite the fact that you're horribly out of shape). It's no wonder these resolutions are often short-lived. When it comes to making lasting changes to your diet and lifestyle habits, slow and steady wins the race.

There's no doubt that committing to eat healthier and get more exercise are great New Year's resolutions. But unless your new practices are sustainable, any progress you make could be short-lived. Small steps toward better health in 2019, give these tips a try.

Cut out sugary drinks immediately. Sugary drinks like regular soda, fruit drinks, energy drinks, and sweet tea raise your blood glucose and add empty calories to your daily intake. Even though it can be a hard habit to kick, do all you can to eliminate these drinks from your diet. Replace them with fresh water, low-fat milk, flavored calorie-free carbonated water, and unsweetened tea and coffee.

Purge the junk food. Cookies, chips, sweets, and other snacks are hard to resist when they are an arm's length away. The best way to avoid them is by removing them from your home. But don't worry. When you're craving a snack, you can try a healthier whole food option, like slices of avocado, a handful of nuts, kale chips, a small serving of Greek yogurt, a piece of fruit, veggies with hummus or nut butter. These snacks are more satisfying and pack more nutrition than your processed favorites.

Do some research and identify an eating pattern you can live with. Studies show that there are many different eating patterns that can be helpful in managing diabetes. That means that if you're trying to get your health in order, you don't have to stick to a rigid plan that restricts many of your favorite foods. Some effective eating patterns include vegetarian or flexitarian, Mediterranean, low-carbohydrate, and low-glycemic.

Choose leaner cuts of meat. Saturated fat—the kind found in animal protein—raises blood cholesterol levels, which is a risk factor for heart disease. An easy way to reduce your saturated fat intake is by choosing lean cuts of meat. Avoid or reduce your intake of lard, fatback, and high-fat meats like regular ground beef, bologna, hot dogs, sausage, bacon, spareribs, and the skin from chicken and other poultry. Instead, choose skinless poultry; fish, turkey, and beef trimmed of fat, including round, sirloin, flank, and tenderloin; and lean cuts of pork, including center loin chop and tenderloin.

Plan your meal around veggies (instead of making them the afterthought). At mealtimes, try to fill at least half of your plate with nonstarchy vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, bell peppers, Brussels sprouts, and eggplant. Veggies like cauliflower, broccoli, carrots, and Brussels sprouts are delicious when roasted in the oven, and sautéing cabbage, bell peppers, and eggplant brings out their natural flavors. Finally, start any meal with a simple salad of mixed greens to help you meet your veggie quota.

Try lettuce wraps instead of bread. Iceberg, green leaf, or butter lettuce make a surprisingly delicious bread substitute. Use them in place of bread for your next sandwich. Nestle burgers or grilled chicken inside a lettuce "cup" in place of hamburger buns, and carefully wrap deli meats and toppings into a low-carb lettuce sub sandwich and secure it with wax paper and a piece of tape. Then tear the paper away as you eat.

Eat veggie noodles in place of pasta. For a great pasta substitute, sample the veggie noodles trend. Veggie noodles are a delicious, lower-carb option that can be eaten in place of grain-based pastas. A kitchen tool called a "spiralizer" quickly and easily turns vegetables into "noodles," or you can use a standard vegetable peeler for a similar result. For even more convenience, you can now find these spiralized veggies in the freezer or produce section of many grocery stores. Try noodles made from zucchini, sweet potato, carrot, or spaghetti squash. Top them with chili, Bolognese sauce, or use them to make a cold "pasta salad" or noodle dishes like Pad Thai. Hint: You can also try cauliflower, butternut, or broccoli "rice" in place of regular rice for a lower-carb option.

Schedule in exercise five days a week. What you write on your calendar and allot time for is more likely to get done. Your workouts don't have to be extra rigorous to be effective. Just taking a brisk 30-minute walk each day—or at least five times a week—is a great way to get your heart rate up and kickstart weight loss and improved health. Of course, if you'd like to take up running or sign up for a cardio class, go for it! But if you are sedentary, it's important to start slow and build up your endurance so you can maintain your new routine!

But don't do ONLY cardio. Get in some strength training too (even if you're watching TV at the same time). Strength or resistance training makes your body more sensitive to insulin and can lower blood glucose. It also helps to maintain and build strong muscles and bones. The American Diabetes Association recommends doing some type of strength training at least two times per week. Activities include using weight machines, free weights at the gym, or resistance bands; exercises that use your body weight to work your muscles like squats, lunges, planks, wall-sits, and push-ups; or activities that build and keep muscle like heavy gardening.

Do at least some of your exercise outdoors. There's nothing wrong with going to the gym, but if you're feeling unmotivated to do your normal indoor routine, take your workout outside. The fresh air is invigorating, and studies show that being in nature decreases stress and promotes positive emotions. So be sure to trade out some of your time on a treadmill for a walk or jog in a local park. Or do lunges, push-ups, and other strength training in your backyard for a change of scenery.

Shake up your sedentary workday every chance you get. Sitting at a desk all day can negatively impact your health. If the nature of your work causes you to be sedentary for eight hours a day, look for chances to build more movement into your day. For example, take a ten-minute walk after lunch, get up and move a little each hour (even if it's just a walk to the water fountain or restroom), park farther away than you normally would, take the stairs instead of the elevator.

There's no reason your New Year's resolutions have to be painful, punishing, and ultimately unsustainable. Making more manageable changes—that you will actually enjoy—is a better game plan for success. Make 2019 the year you finally shift into a healthier lifestyle and start moving toward building a better you.

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The area high school basketball teams all participated in holiday hardwood tournaments during the course of the holiday break.

The Bay High Tigers hosted their annual bash following Christmas on December 27-28. The Hancock Hawks traveled to the Vancleave Tournament prior to the holiday and the Saint Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws traveled to Pensacola on December 27-29.

The Bay High Christmas Tournament was the largest one the school has had in recent memory with games beginning at 9am each day and continuing into the late evening hours.

On the first day, the West Harrison Lady Hurricanes fell to the St. Martin Lady Yellow Jackets 70-47.

Alexis Morris led St. Martin with 18 points followed by Tuende Seymour with 11.

Octavia Otis paced West Harrison with 18 points and went 10-for-10 from the line. Chelsey Washington added 12 points and Akeira Baker 10 in the loss.

In the second game of the day, the d'Iberville Lady Warriors edged McLaurin 45-44 in the final seconds.

McLaurin had a chance when Gracie Ferguson went to the line with .6 seconds remaining and needed both free shots to send the game into overtime. Ferguson made the first but missed the second and the Lady Warriors grabbed the rebound as time expired.

Ferguson and Zakhia Jackson each scored 13 points for McLaurin while Aliyah Carey led the Lady Warriors with 20 points.

In game three, the Gautier Gators defeated East Central 33-21. Demetrius Watson and Makael Calhoun each scored 10 points onto lead Gautier while Micah O'Guin scored 12 points for East Central.

In the fourth game, the Red Rebelettes of Harrison Central narrowly fell to the Lady Hornets of East Central 55-51. Sania Wells led East Central with 28 points and went 8-of-10 from the line. De'Asia Booker scored 18 points and Je'Mya Evans 16 to pace Harrison Central.

The fifth game of the day pitted West Harrison against d'Iberville in boys action. West Harrison pulled out the win 50-40.

Ashton Hawkins led West Harrison with 16 points while Rakeem Barnes led d'Iberville with 20 points.

In the sixth game, the Pass Christian Lady Pirates (16-0) defeated the Lawrence County Lady Cougars 40-35. Emory Benoit and Miranda Laurent each scored 11 points for the Lady Pirates while Tiesha McCullum led Lawrence County with 12 points.

The seventh game had the Bay High Lady Tigers

(4-10) square off with the Lady Admirals of Gulfport.

The Lady Tigers led 11-9 after the first period and 21-18 at halftime. However, Gulfport squeezed out the win 46-31 in the second half after holding Bay High to just three points in the fourth period.

Amajah Smith led Gulfport with 15 points while Alayla Meadows scored 11 points to pace Bay High.

In the final game of the first day, the Bay High Tigers (10-5) defeated Lawrence County 58-55 in overtime.

The teams were knotted at 18-18 after the first period and Lawrence County held a slim 31-27 lead at intermission.

Bay High trimmed the lead to a basket 42-40 at the end of the third period.

Kyren Galloway missed the back end of a pair of free throws that could have won the game for Bay High in regulation but instead left the score 49-49.

In the extra frame, the Tigers were 4-of-4 at the line to win the game but were 12-of-21 for the game in a less than stellar performance at the stripe.

Daetyn Davis led Lawrence County with 14 points followed by LeDarrien Sutton and Kedarrius Gordon with 13 points each.

Bay High was paced by Galloway with 17 points and 11 rebounds followed by Maxwell Lewis with 15 points and four assists, Khalil Bell with 11 points and five rebounds and Elijah Curry with 10 points and five assists.

On the second day of the Bay High tournament, the day started with the Lady Admirals falling to the Lady Yellow Jackets of St. Martin 49-30.

In the second game, Lawrence County defeated d'Iberville 52-32. Zakhia Jackson led the Lady Warriors with 10 points and Casey Lewis led Lawrence County with 14 points.

The third game pitted the Gautier Gators against Lawrence County in boys action. Gautier nipped Lawrence County 53-51. In the fourth game, the East Central Lady Hornets defeated West Harrison 46-44. Sania Wells scored 27 points for East Central and Alexis Morris paced West Harrison with 19 points.

In the fifth game, d'Iberville defeated East Central 43-35 in boys action. Rakeem Barnes led d'Iberville with 13 points while Dustin Muffley led East Central with 13 points.

The sixth game featured the Bay High Lady

Tigers taking on McLaurin with McLaurin edging out the win 44-39.

McKenzie Favre led Bay High with 13 points followed by Kaitlyn McLain with 11 points. Aliyah Carey led all scorers with 32 points.

The seventh game featured the Pass Christian Lady Pirates against the Harrison Central Red Rebelettes.

The Lady Pirates were able to slip past Harrison Central 38-36 in the waning minutes of the game.

Ambria Christophe led Pass Christian with 13 points while Je'Mya Evans led Harrison Central with 11 points.

In the final game of the tournament, the Bay High Tigers locked horns with West Harrison.

The Tigers defeated West Harrison 54-51. Bay High was led by Kyren

Galloway with 21 points and 11 rebounds. He was 10-of-11 from the line.

West Harrison was paced by Jeremy Lane with 14 points and Jeremiah Lane with 13 points.

Bay High boys head coach Randy McCrory commented, "I believe the tournament was a huge success for all teams and players. The teams were able to play opponents that they would not normally see which gave them an opportunity to see some different things on the court and work on situational things. For us, this was a great way to warm us up for the division schedule that starts right away after the holiday is over."

The Hancock Hawks met Greene County on December 21st in the Vancleave Tournament. The Hawks fell 46-43 while the Lady Hawks (7-7) won 55-36.

Beryl Laird presents Ruthie O'Neill with Most Improved Player Award.

Nancy Sislow presents Theresa Mauterer with 2018 Club Championship Trophy.

DWGAN Golfing News from December

BY SHIRLEY HALTERMAN

By the time you read this a New Year will have dawned. We at the Nines hope and pray that yours will be both Happy and Prosperous!

Once again Mother Nature interfered with some of our events, but nonetheless we have a good amount to report because of some of our Holiday events.

Our normal Trophy Day competition was played as usual on the first Tuesday of the month. Our First Flight winners were: Low Gross - Judy Tauzin, Low Net - Linda DeParto, and Low Putts - Marilyn Galus. Second Flight winners included: Low Gross - Margaret Sherwood, Low Net - Pat VanDervort, and Low Putts - Marsha Roberts.

And, last, but certainly not least, were the winners in our Third Flight: Low Gross - Ruthie O'Neill, Low Net - Jerry Ingraham, and Low Putts - Carole Griffin. On Trophy Day we also award prizes to the following categories in each flight: Longest Drive and Closest-to-the-Pin. And this month's Longest Drive winners were: Flight #1 - Judy Tauzin, Flight #2 - Rachel Stewart, and Flight #3 - Carole Griffin. Closest-to-the-Pine honors went to: Flight #1 -

Theresa Mauterer, Flight #2 - Kathie Pierson, and Flight #3 - Jerry Ingraham. We also take note that Ruthie O'Neill scored a Chip-In on the 5th hole.

On Tuesday, December 11th, we held our Annual Christmas Scramble and Luncheon.

Unfortunately, the weather was not the best, but we did have several gals brave the chilly weather. Our First Place Team consisting of Theresa Mauterer, Ruthie O'Neill, Pat VanDervort and a Ghost managed to post a score of 35. Well done gals! The Second Place group, also playing with a Ghost, was made up of Sylvia Corban, Marilyn Galus, and Fran Smith. Their score was 39. And, finally our Third Place Group posting a score of 40 was composed of Patty Blackwood, Judi Brannan, Jerry Ingraham, and Kathie Pierson.

Many who were unable to play joined us at the delicious Christmas Luncheon. Toys were collected for the Hancock Foster Children's Program while funds were collected to help the local Food Pantry. We all had an opportunity to view a great video of previous events ably compiled by our own Beryl Laird. In addition, Ruthie O'Neill was presented with the Most Improved Player of the Year Award. Sandy Price presented cash awards to everyone who scored Birdies and Chip-Ins during the past season. Our President, Nancy Sislow, took time to thank all Board & Committee members for the help during the recent year. She also awarded a trophy to Theresa Mauterer who is our 2018 Nines Club Champion.

We did manage to get in one final round on the Tuesday, 12/18, before the Christmas and New Year's Holidays. On that Tuesday we played a game called Add Par 4s. In this event, you play as usual but only your score on Par Four holes is taken into account. In Flight #1, the 1st Place winner was: Judy Tauzin, 2nd Place - Kathie Pierson, and 3rd Place - Theresa Mauterer. Second Flight Winners were: 1st Place - Nancy Sislow, 2nd Place - Kathy Jones, and 3rd Place - Beryl Laird. For the Third Flight those taking the honors were: 1st Place - Dolores Louvier, 2nd Place - Mary Mizell, and 3rd Place - Carol Wyrosdick. Kathy Jones also scored a Birdie on #4 and Judy Tauzin had a Chip-In on #1. Good going gals!

As our year draws to a close we want to take this opportunity to invite those of you in our area (Diamondhead or nearby communities) to consider joining our group. Don't be bashful.

Even if you are new to this addictive sport, we welcome you to join us. As my husband told me far too many years ago, "you'll never get any better unless you play often." Just contact our Club House (228-255-3910) for additional information.

The National Oceans and Applications Research Center (NOARC) will accept Statements of Qualifications from qualified firms interested in conducting collaborative applications development in connection with the NOARC - Planning Assistance award (the "Project"). This project will be funded by the United States Department of the Treasury, through the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality. The detailed requirements for the Request for Qualifications (RFQ) can be found on the NOARC website at HYPERLINK "http://www.noarc.org" www.noarc.org. We expect this RFQ process to result in contracts with strategic partner companies and organizations under the terms and conditions of the NOARC Collaborative Applications Research Agreement. The anticipated collective scope of work for this phase will encompass: Selection, integration and testing of advanced unmanned environmental monitoring technologies to address:

Cost-effective, near-shore benthic habitat mapping and monitoring
Cost-effective, shoreline, wetlands, and barrier island restoration mapping and monitoring.
Validation of advanced data analysis, distribution, and archival technologies.

We expect to use the responses to this RFQ to form collaborative projects designed to utilize the combined skill set and technology base of the project team to rapidly prototype and test new environmental monitoring technologies. DR. GARY R. BACHMAN
MSU EXTENSION SERVICE

As I'm writing this last Southern Gardening column of 2018, I'm trying to take one more look back before plunging headlong into the 2019 gardening season that's just around the corner. But I'm having trouble concentrating because the mail carrier is distracting me.

It seems like every day there is at least one new shiny thing in the mailbox that grabs my attention. And they're being delivered earlier than ever this year.

To what am I referring, you ask? To gardening catalogs, of course!

When I get a new catalog, it brings me back to my younger days going through the Sears catalog toy section. Now it's just big boy toys, and you know how it is with boys and their toys.

I've shared my obsession with gardening catalogs before, and it hasn't changed. Even though times have changed and most ordering is done online, there's still something I enjoy about thumbing through the latest catalog. The tactile sensation of turning the pages is like walking a winding garden path and wondering what's around the next curve.

When I'm looking through garden catalogs,

I always have a stack of sticky tabs so I can mark the pages I want to go back to and have another look.

It's pretty common for me to get more than 30 different catalogs each year, not counting duplicates. That's a lot of reading that I thoroughly enjoy, but to tell you the truth, I only order from three or four favorites in any given year. I know avid gardeners who order from a completely different set of their favorites, demonstrating the wide variety to choose from in the garden catalog world.

I also start most of the plants I grow from seed. There's something I like about considering the potential that's contained in a tiny seed. It reminds me of an Internet meme that was shared this fall. It asked: "Can you describe an acorn?" Of course, the answer is, "In a nutshell, it's a tree."

When I look at a tomato seed weighing 1/100th of an ounce, I don't see that small seed. I see a tomato plant that in three months will gift me and my family with 10 to 20 pounds of fresh tomatoes. If only we all lived up to that much potential!

Now, I'm not going to bore you with a list of my very favorite garden catalogs. If you're that interested, you can search the Southern Gardening archives online to see what I shared from time to time in the past.

What I'd like to see you do is not just toss those garden catalogs you get. My New Year's wish is for you to take the time this winter to find some plants you are interested in growing next year. You may end up not ordering anything, but I guarantee you'll be inspired to have your best garden and landscape yet in 2019.

Happy New Year!

You have to spend money to Make money.

IT'S NOT JUST A SAYING...THE PROOF IS IN BLACK AND WHITE.

1. any circulating medium of exchange, including coins, paper money, and demand deposits.

You have to spend money to Make money.

This is a common English saying . It means that it's hard to make money in a business without investing some money in supplies, products, advertisement or other business expenses.

Who wants to hear that? Probably no one. The truth hurts.

Owning a business is tough. No one ever said it was easy. In owning a business, your goal is to be recognized and successful. Why put in all of the hard work to be basically "invisible". You see ads that run regularly. These businesses are successful. They're seen weekly whether it be to a flashy logo or an attractive female/male model. The point is that the business is getting noticed. A common phrase heard among salesman and ad representatives is this: "We don't have the money to advertise". Sorry to be blunt, but you probably won't ever have "extra" money if you're unknown. Advertisements in the newspaper can pay big dividends if they are targeted to the right markets and presented in a way that encourages readers to buy.

You need to Know Your Audience. While younger Americans aren't the newspaper readers that their parents and grandparents are, print still offers a way of reaching key demographics. According to a study prepared for the Newspaper Association of America, 65.6 percent of respondents read the newspaper at least once in the past week, and that number rises to 72.6 percent of adults aged 55 and over. Print media is accessed by both genders, with 60.8 percent of each having read a newspaper over the past seven days. If those figures match your target marketing audience, it makes sense to use print to reach them.

Location, Location, Location... Location can't be stressed enough. Newspapers offer the ability to target your ads to better reach a specific customer base. For example, if you're selling sports equipment, advertising on TV during the NFL playoffs is likely cost-prohibitive and may reach many viewers with no intention of buying your wares. A small advertisement in your local sports section has the potential to catch the eye of football fans in your area, getting the local sports fans attention at a fraction of the cost. Make sure your ad is in the right spot in the paper. You're likely to have better luck selling musical instruments in the entertainment section of the paper than in the business or food sections.
